100 846 90

Abstract of the Disclosure catastrophic event survival structure method of manufacture such that the catastrophic event survival structure includes a monolithic outer shell formed from a single pour of concrete and enclosig a confined inner space therein. The monolithic outer shell of the catastrophic event survival structure is configured to withstand substantial wind projectile impact forces and includes a door to permit resealable access to the confined inner space.